

Andrea Rogers Mosley

Andrea Rogers Mosley serves as the center director of the Alabama SBDC at Alabama State University. She has been with the SBDC since 2010. She previously owned a solopreneur virtual assistance and web design company for seven years prior to working with the SBDC. Mosley is active in the community and currently serves as an advisory council member of the Lowndes County Area Chamber of Commerce and an appointed commissioner with the Montgomery Housing Authority. She has served as a Montgomery Area Chamber of Commerce board member and Roundtable facilitator for the Women in Business Conversations. Mosley honorably served as an active duty service member in the U.S. Marine Corps from 1989 to 1993 and is a Desert Shield and Desert Storm Veteran. She holds a Bachelor of Science Degree in Human Resource Management from Troy University and a Master of Arts Degree in Human Services: Counseling Business from Liberty University. She is passionate about helping small businesses survive and thrive. She loves traveling with her husband and spending quality time with their children and family.

