

Amy Freeman

BIO

Amy has been a key part of the Navarro SBDC since March of 2012. She was originally hired under the Jobs Act Grant and worked part time for the center until September of 2016. Amy became a full time Business Advisor in October of 2016. In addition to her work with the SBDC, Amy has owned her own small bookkeeping business for the last fifteen years.

She has been a consistent advocate for small businesses, primarily in Limestone and Freestone Counties. Amy is a great team player and has worked with training new Advisors throughout the North Texas SBDC Region. She has a strong work ethic and "cando" attitude. The Navarro SBDC would not be what it is today without such a key member of their team.

Amy has an Associates Degree from CNFI in Dallas in Practical Theology. She has also completed the Texas Friendly Hospitality Instructor Program. In addition to that, Amy is a Certified Economic Development Professional via her coursework with the National Development Council. She is also pursuing a Professional & Community Economic Developer Certification (PCED) certification having taken all necessary coursework. Amy has been a QuickBooks Certified Pro Advisor since 2013.

During her time with the SBDC, Amy has helped to facilitate economic development in the community she serves. She has helped small businesses to create and retain hundreds of jobs, helped clients infuse millions of dollars in their businesses and contributed well over 4500 hours to the growth and expansion of small business.
