

Sarah comes to VtSBDC with two decades of experience working in both large companies and start-ups. Prior to moving to Vermont in 2006, Sarah worked in the Boston area for Converse, Inc., focusing on business development in Latin America. After her time at Converse, she worked for a series of start-up companies primarily on the strategy and business development of consumer products. During that time, she also completed her M.B.A. at Babson College. Sarah has a deep interest in the creative economy and the arts and for a time, ran her own small arts-related importing business. She is also passionate about helping young entrepreneurs follow their dreams and spends time advising students on college campuses around VT. Sarah lives in Middlebury with her husband David, and has one child at UVM and one at Syracuse. Sarah speaks Spanish and has advanced proficiency in French. Her hobbies include watercolor and watching the Red Sox.
